Shane Housby scores a hat-trick

Silloth apprentice mechanic Shane Housby who works for Scott Wilson in Silloth has been awarded three outstanding awards from Workington Technical College. He achieved: Mechanic of the Year, Most Improved Mechanic, and an Excellence Award. Shane left school early to work with Scott has proved that with Scott as a good mentor and his own hard work, maintaining Scott's standards of "where quality counts" have given him a good grounding. Using this experience for his one day a week at College has taken him to the top of his class.

Shane said "working for Scott Wilson has helped me to achieve these three awards, servicing, MOT's and car sales are all part of our day to day workload".

This is an excellent result for a local business and shows what can be achieved by hard work.

Do you realise?

There is much more to the Solway Buzz than just this paper...

You can read any issue, right from issue 1, on the web site, tell your family and friends who live abroad.

Even the adverts are on the internet, giving better value to all our advertisers.

There is also a form making it easy for you to send in articles to the Buzz.

When there has been an event in the area, and lots of photographs have been given to the Buzz, we put them all on the web site - your picture may well be there for all to see.
